

Earth Trust

Wild cherry is an ecologically important native species that produces beautiful high-value timber. The large orchard at Earth Trust produces Qualified seed suitable for much of Britain.

Key facts

- Composed of 98 grafted plus trees selected for excellent form and health
- Year of establishment: 2010
- FRM category: Qualified
- Orchard type: grafted plus trees
- Number of trees: 124
- Original spacing: 5 x 5 m
- Owner: Earth Trust

Where to plant

Wild cherry shows moderate levels of local adaptation. The plus trees in this orchard are mainly selected from England and Wales. Trees from this orchard are highly suitable for the majority of Great Britain. No recommendations are made for the island of Ireland, please seek country-specific advice.

